TELEGRAMS ARE DENIED TODAY IN SENATE HEARING

Evidence of Messages is Counteracted By Today's Inquest.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Feb. 29.—Several of the sensational assertions made in telegrams sent to E. B. McLean in Florida by his employees here were denied today in testimony before the oil committee.
A. Mitchell Palmer, a former democratic Attorney General who acted as counsel for the publisher, testified he was not a "partner" of J. W. Zevely, attorney for Harry F. Sinclair; that he was not looking after the interests of A. B. Fall, and that he did not, as stated in the telegrams, ask Senator Underwood or anyone else to bring pressure to bear on Senator Walsh to keep McLean off the stand. He added that he was not at present employed by any oil company and defended his decision while he was Attorney General to dismiss prosecution of the Southern Pacific land cases in California.
The committee also cross examined Karl C. Schuler, Denver attorney, who declared the Denver group that intervened in the Teapot dome negotiations and were brought out by Harry F. Sinclair had acted on the theory that there was a "conspiracy" between Sinclair and the Pioneer Oil Company.
A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson administration, testified before the committee the circumstances of his retention at attorney for E. B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post.
He denied J. W. Zevely, counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, is his law partner as suggested in the McLean telegrams.
He added, however, that Zevely is "an old friend of mine" and had outlined to him a couple of months ago the salient facts in the oil inquiry.
Zevely asked his opinion he said, as to whether Sinclair and Fall could be compelled to answer questions before the committee. Palmer gave it as his opinion that they could.
Palmer said he had not seen Fall "for years" and denied he was to look after the interests of "the man at Wardman Park" as J. F. Major said in one of his telegrams to McLean at Palm Beach.
"I did not take up this matter with Senator Underwood," Palmer said when asked about a report sent to McLean that he had done so.
He also denied that he had discussed the matter with any senator except Walsh of Montana and Chairman Lenroot.
"I did not have a living soul working on Senator Walsh," Palmer said when questioned about another of Major's telegrams to McLean.
A. Mitchell Palmer's Fees
Testifying that he had never had represented E. L. Doherty, Palmer said smilingly: "I rather regret that, considering the size of the fees he paid."
Mr. Palmer as a Quaker "affirmed" his intention of telling the truth instead of swearing, and Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, took up the examination.
"I've been a friend or acquaintance of E. B. McLean for some years," Mr. Palmer said. "But in this case I became his attorney. John Major, an employee of McLean came to me December 26 or December 27, showing me a telegram from Mr. McLean as his authority for retaining me."
The telegram and Major's reply had previously been put in the record.
"Major refers to Zevely in the telegram as your law partner," Senator Dill said. "Is that true?"
Not Zevely's Partner
"It is not," Mr. Palmer said. Ho (Continued on Page Two)

RESCINDING OF DEMOCRATIC TAX RATES FORESEEN

Republicans and Insurgents Effect Compromise in House.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Feb. 29.—House republican insurgents formally agreed today to support the republican compromise for the democratic income rates in the revenue bill.
Representative Nelson, Wisconsin, leader of the group said practically all of the 17 insurgents who voted for the Garner plan would support the substitute to be offered by Representative Longworth, Ohio, republican leader.
Reunited of the republican forces, leaders said, would force a rejection of the Garner rates on a final vote this afternoon.
While house leaders were in consultation there were indications at the White House that President Coolidge might be preparing to set forth some weeks ago some of those close to the President he might veto a compromise measure which departed materially from the schedule of the Mellon plan.
Reports of the latest compromise negotiations were carried to the White House yesterday but the representatives who talked with the President on the subject received no definite assurance that the Longworth plan would be acceptable to him.

New Jersey Likely to See Big Prize Fights

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Feb. 29.—New York's place in the pugilistic limelight last year when eight world's title fights were held, probably will be usurped this year by New Jersey, according to indications.
Not only have an accumulation of circumstances, involving legislative action, charges and counter charges of ticket speculation and other events, made the future fight situation uncertain in this state, but a direct bid for leading ring plums has been made by New Jersey's proposal to increase to $25 the maximum admission charge. This figure, an increase of $10, yesterday was approved by the assembly.
Tex Rickard, promoter, has declared he is ready to use his Jersey arena as a site for a Wills-Firpo contest if the principals accept his $300,000 offer. He also may utilize Boyle's Thirty Acres for the proposed return match between Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons. Other heavyweight battle which might be staged include a return match between Firpo and Dempsey and a prospective Gibbons-Carpentier fight.

DAUGHTERY IS NOT OPPOSED TO PROBE OF HIS ACTIVITIES

Engages Counsel to See That He Gets Fair Deal in Senate.

BULLETIN.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Feb. 29.—The resolution for investigation of the administration of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general was taken up today in the senate.
Its adoption is expected before tonight and the inquiry will begin next week.

"Traditions of the senate," Senator Lodge argued, required that the president every mark of personal respect and should not be curtailed in his customary privilege.
Declaring that all he wanted was a fair and impartial investigation, Senator Wheeler charged that Attorney General Daugherty had sought to "intimidate" senators by saying if some of them did not resign he would have an important statement.
Senator Wheeler also declared that the Attorney General "already apparently had intimidated the man at the White House because we all know that his resignation would be acceptable to the president."

To Retain Daugherty as Delegate in Ohio

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Feb. 29.—Attorney General Daugherty will be retained on the list of Coolidge delegates at large from Ohio to the republican national convention regardless of the fight on him in the senate and regardless of whether he remains in the cabinet.
"I did not," said Senator Willis. "That is false."
The Ohio senator declared Mr. Daugherty was a man who "fights and does not run away."
"Where is he now?" asked Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky.
Controversy at once developed over the question of appointing the investigating committee. Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, author of the resolution proposed that five senators, three republicans and two democrats be elected by the senate.
Senator Lodge, countered with a proposal for appointment of the committee in the customary manner.
Senator Robins of Arkansas, democratic leader, supported the plan for election of the special committee by the senate, declaring "it had openly declared that efforts were contemplated to pack the committee." He added he had reason to believe that Senator Cummins of Iowa, the president protem did not desire to name the committee.

The coughing season is on and every home should have a supply of the best cough remedy to be had, and as you can make this supremely excellent cough mixture yourself why pay high prices for the common kind. Coughs from Rowland Bros. or any other drugist one ounce of Parvint (double strength) to this add a little granulated sugar, as directed, and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it.

NEWS FROM DIXON

FACULTIES OF HIGH SCHOOLS GUESTS OF HI-Y

Very Happy Meeting at Association Bldg. on Thursday.

Yesterday will always be looked upon as a red letter day by the local HI-Y club, for at their regular luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. they entertained the faculties of both the city high schools at their regular noonday luncheon. Sixty four sat down to the splendid dinner prepared by the mothers of the members. After the regular business of the club and the community singing, the president, Frederic Ball, called on vice president Myron Smith, who made a very neat address of welcome. Eugene Vest followed with an address outlining the history and purpose of the HI-Y club. He stated that there are now 2000 clubs in the United States and as many more that are not yet affiliated with the National Organization. An opportunity was given every teacher who made very fitting remarks for the occasion. The club hopes to make the idea an annual affair.

Two weeks from tonight will be another outstanding meeting when the local HI-Y will entertain the members of the Sterling HI-Y, together with their lady friends. Great preparations are being made and the event will be one of the best of the season for the club. While the club is specialing on Vocational Guidance talks still they have other outstanding meetings for the future, including a banquet to their mothers prepared and served by themselves, an initiation meeting and an overnight hike.

denied he was attorney for Fall or Sinclair. "I think Major got the impression that I was connected with the matter from conversation with Zevely," Palmer went on. "Colonel Zevely is an old friend of mine and on December 23 he called at my house and talked with me about the investigation. I did not know hardly the investigation was on."

"Fall, Zevely, said, was in doubt as to what to show about where he got certain money."

"I told him I thought the law would allow the committee to compel both Sinclair and Fall to answer questions pertinent to the inquiry."

The witness said Francis H. McAdoo, son of W. G. McAdoo, had conferred with him regarding the statement he presented to the committee on behalf of McLean.

TEN CENTS PER LINE FOR CARD OF THANKS.
Evidently there are some who do not understand that Card of Thanks run in a newspaper is purely a personal matter and not news, and consequently something for which a charge is made in all papers. Seventy-five cents is the minimum price in the Telegraph, so if those wishing a card run would send the money with copy it would save all further annoyance.

I WILL LIFT UP MINE EYES—
I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, From whence all beauty and all wisdom come.
But here is wisdom that no thought instills
And beauty here before which lips are dumb—
And I who come to worship at their feet,
How can I fashion words for such as these?
There is no language which the lips repeat.
To speak the shy simplicity of trees,
Or hold the quietness of winds that sleep
Among cool ferns upon a canyon's breast,
Or talk of peace where hungry shadows creep
When twilight lingers on that last lone crest.
Here is a beauty that all speech denies—
But all my life I will lift up mine eyes.
—Helen Frazee Bower in New York Herald.

SOUTH DIXON COMMUNITY CLUB—
The members of the South Dixon Community club will meet next Wednesday in an all-day meeting with Mrs. Lloyd Henry, on the Peoria road, and a picnic dinner will be served at noon. All the members are requested to be present as the newly elected officers will be installed.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—Clean Floors.

Crude petroleum can be used to cleanse floors that have been painted, varnished or oiled. It not only cleanses but gives a finish as well.

Air in Room.
To test the purity of the atmosphere in a room, half fill a glass with lime water. If there is an excess of carbonic acid in the atmosphere, a thin white scum will form on the surface of the water.

Strain Water.
When a filter is not employed in the kitchen, the water for drinking and cooking should be strained through a flannel bag which is fastened to the faucet and changed daily.

Remedy for Burns.
Mix a gill of lime water with one of sweet oil and keep in a bottle in your kitchen as a quick remedy for burns.

West Group Sunshine Class Had Meeting
The jolly evening of real comradeship passed all too quickly when the West Group of the Sunshine Class met last night at the home of Mrs. Axel Martenson, 1213 Seventh street, and the larger attendance gave promise of meetings after icy walks are not a hindrance. Next month the group will have a Lenten meeting at the home of Mrs. Roy Fry, at the corner of Fourth and College.

Section organization in that part of the city was adjusted to take care of new members, also as a result of one leader moving to California this week.

The hostess had provided a lovely bouquet of carnations, the class flower, and nice refreshments of two things as allowed by the class rules. Victrola music was enjoyed several times during the evening.

Mrs. Ketchin's 88th Birthday Honored
Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ketchin entertained with a birthday dinner at their home, honoring the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Elizabeth Ketchin, mother of Mr. Ketchin. There were present Mrs. Ketchin's three sons and daughter, and their families as follows: Henry, James, Alexander, and Mrs. Agnes Weyant. A pleasant evening followed the enjoyable dinner. Mrs. Ketchin is in fairly good health and received yesterday many gifts and congratulatory greetings.

Frances Willard Memorial Held

The Frances Willard memorial of the W. C. T. U. was held Tuesday at Grace Evangelical church. The church was well filled with members and their friends to listen to the splendid program which follows:

Piano Selection—Medley National Airs, beautifully rendered by Mrs. Wilson White.

A song service was conducted by Rev. Brandellner, "Faith of Our Fathers," being the leading number. A cornet solo was given by George Sproul.

Mrs. George Webster led the devotions. She read from Philippians 2:13, following with a prayer.

The Crews Brothers Quartet rendered two numbers.

The "Life of Frances Willard" by O. E. Strook was very comprehensive. He told of her many achievements and her worth to humanity at large.

Two beautiful vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Archie Klein. Miss Rilla Webster gave a reading entitled, "Christian Patriotism," which was most admirably rendered, and to the enthusiastic applause she responded with an encore which was in the humorous order. The question, "Scientific Temperance Instruction in Schools" was handled very efficiently by Miss McCune.

Rev. and Mrs. Brandellner rendered a vocal duet beautifully, entitled "It Pays to Serve Jesus."

Miss Janette Dewey briefly told of the importance of Temperance instruction in schools.

Mrs. Thompson gave a talk on the needs of the organization, both financially and spiritually, and urged all who wished, to join.

Rev. Brandellner dismissed the meeting with benediction.

The W. C. T. U. are grateful to all those who so generously and ably donated their songs and readings to make the meeting one which proved beneficial and entertaining as well.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

CHIEF EVENTS OF THE WEEK BRIEFLY TOLD

Denby—Daugherty—Prohibition—Europe

NEA Service Writer
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Secretary of the Navy Denby was just as positive he wouldn't resign as Attorney General Daugherty is. Yet he resigned. So there's no certainty the pressure won't be too severe for Daugherty, too. If he did speculate in Sinclair oil—he hasn't admitted it—his friends declare his dealings were small; he lost, besides. They don't say he meant to though. Falsely accused—he claims—by certain senators, Daugherty talks of appealing to "the bar of public opinion;" how, isn't clear.

PRESIDENTIAL SECRETARIES
The Senate oil investigators plan to put President Coolidge's secretary, Bascom Slemp, on the pan. They want to know if he's chatted about the oil cases with anybody. Of course he has. It will be hearsay but mighty interesting if he talks freely. President Harding's secretary, George Christian, avoided investigation by asking President Coolidge to cancel his appointment to a job on the Federal Trade Commission. This happened after Chairman Thompson stated Christian, as secretary, had tried to influence the commission in favor of a movie concern. Christian said it wasn't so, but he didn't want to work with an uncongenial chairman.

YOUR INCOME TAX
In connection with the income tax fight, there's but one safe bet—there'll be no reduction in time to affect payments due March 15. Related changes may mean rebates later on. To big taxpayers they'll mean something. To the average man they won't amount to much—perhaps a box of cigars. For all practical purposes, so far as 1923 is concerned, he's "stuck" at the present rate.

WAKE THEM UP
Prohibition may not have been jolted, but dry agents' methods were, when one of them, shooting at a mere suspect, in Washington, hit Senator Greene in the head. One of its own members having been nearly killed, Congress sat up with a jerk and began to investigate—especially Dry Commissioner Haynes' recent declaration that a few shootings didn't matter, compared with enforcing the law. Even the dry lawmakers don't want to be shot.

OBREGON'S JOB
Now that President Obregon, using American arms, has about squelched rebellion in Mexico, he's trying to amend the constitution, so as to stretch his term, soon to expire, by two years. Which hints at some truth in the charge by General de la Huerta, beaten rebel leader, that the "Obregonistas" are trying to hang onto power by peculiar means.

BILL TO PERMIT LIQUOR PROMISED BY 40 MEMBERS

Modification of Volstead Act Will Be Asked Next Week.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Forty members of the house joined today in an announcement that next week they each will introduce a bill to legalize the manufacture and sale of beverage with an alcoholic content of 2.75 per cent by volume.

The announcement was made in a letter sent to all other house members calling on them to join in the movement to modify the Volstead Act.

The letter was signed by Representatives Britten, Browne, of New Jersey; Berger, Brumm, Celler, Clancy, Connerly, Connolly of Pennsylvania; Corning, Doyle, Dyer, Edmonds, Hill of Maryland; Kahn, Kindred, Kuntz, Laguardia, Lampert, Lehlbach, Linthicum, MacGregor, McNulty, Mead, Minahan, Morin, Newton of Missouri; O'Brien, of New Jersey, O'Connor of Louisiana, O'Sullivan, Perlman, Ransley, Rosenbloom, Sabath, Schaffer, Sherwood, Stephens, Tague, Tydings, Voigt, Wolff.

Asks Probe of Shooting
Declaring the accidental shooting of Senator Greene of Vermont during a chase of suspected bootleggers by a dry law enforcement squad was "typical of the methods pursued by the national prohibition department," Senator Edwards, democrat, New Jersey, urged in the senate today that a thorough investigation be conducted by the federal enforcement agencies.

Such an inquiry, he said, also should determine whether there was foundation for charges of inefficiency made against the prohibition bureau by "nationally prominent friends" of the 18th amendment.

Senator Edwards spoke in support of his resolution empowering the senate judiciary committee to conduct an investigation and asserted that "the deplorable tragedy which prompts the resolution places the inquiry far from personalities and partisanship."

Publishers Visited Port Au Prince Today

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Feb. 28.—The visit of the transport Henderson bearing 84 owners and publishers of newspapers in the midwestern and southwestern states, gave the party first hand knowledge of Haitian conditions.

Included were Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, and Lafayette Young of the Des Moines Capital.

In addition to the trips to points of interest in the capital, their reception by President Borno and an opportunity to witness a parade by a battalion of the native gendarmes, the majority of the party also made a 115 mile trip into the interior.

The party left visibly impressed with the peaceful aspect of the island and the strides being made by the American officials.

MINISTER'S MEETING

The March meeting of the Dixon Ministers' Association, next Monday morning, 10 o'clock, will be addressed by Rev. G. Carlton Story, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, on the pre-Easter topic: "The Spiritual Value of the Observance of Christian Festivals."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. L. D. Lamkin, Pastor
A call for a great rally of the membership of Baptist church Sunday morning.

I have just returned from Baltimore having been absent from my work for five Sundays. My health has so far improved that I will be able to preach Sunday morning and evening.

As pastor I ask the membership of the church to rally next Sunday morning and help to give the work a new start. My enforced absence has laid new and heavy burdens on my heart, and I beg the sympathy and help of every member of the church in doing the work which now demands our consecrated energies. Sunday morning the subject of the sermon will be "Stirring the Eagle's Nest."

9:45 a. m. Sunday School. Let me now bespeak a full attendance of scholars and teachers.

Director of Music, A. Louis Leydig
Sermons by the minister will be: "The Witness of the Holy Spirit," and "Keeping Our Religion Natural and Continuous." Opening the month of March, both Endeavor meetings will be special in character. Anna Jeffery will lead the Junior at 2:30 and Helen Cleaver will lead the C. E. at 6:30.

What is money for but to send them? What is life itself but to fulfill the purpose of foreign missions, enthroning Jesus Christ in the hearts of men?" Dr. Josiah Strong.
The popular saying that it does not make much difference what a man believes if he is only sincere and honest, is utter nonsense. It entirely ignores the connection between belief and character. As a matter of fact, these two stand to each other in the relation of cause and effect. The life is largely the product of a creed. John 10:9 Jesus said: "I am the door; by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture."
A welcome awaits you.

LESLIE PRESCOTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

DEAREST

We arrived here yesterday all safe and sound. Your mother is looking splendidly. I think it has done her a great deal of good to get rid of that terrible Priscilla Bradford.

My visit is very amusing here. Your mother intended to be nice to me, but not particularly cordial, and at first she hardly looked at the baby. After a while I saw her edging over to him when she thought no one was in the room. Finally early one morning I heard a low singing in the room next to me which had been turned into a nursery during my visit.

Getting up, I slipped over to the door in my night dress. You'll never believe it, Jack, but there was your mother in a wrapper, her hair in curl papers (I'll bet you, Jack, you have never seen your mother in curl papers) and she was holding the baby in her arms, singing: "A Charge to Keep I Have."

Little Jack's great big brown eyes were open wide. He was looking at her with the utmost satisfaction. One of his dear little hands was fingering her throat. She looked happier than I have ever seen her, and as I came through the door she glanced up quite naturally, saying:

"He's just like John was when John was a baby."

"I knew you only had to see him, mother, to love him."

"I wish he did belong to me, Leslie," she said wistfully.

"He does, he does, Mother Prescott. I don't know any difference, but I sometimes think it is rather foolish to be so sure a woman who has given birth to a child can love it and be any more of a real mother to it than the woman who has taken the child because she loved it, not because it is her duty but because of that love."

Your mother looked at me rather strangely as she said:

"Leslie, I suppose that is one of the new-fangled ideas. One of my greatest prizes was that God had seen fit to let me bear a child and I believe I would have been very much hurt if I thought any other person could have loved Jack even as well as I."

Of course, Jack dear, I wanted to tell her she had been very selfish in her love for you, but, poor old lady,

I expect she brought you up just as well as she could with the limited knowledge that one knew of child welfare at that time.

Anyway, dear, I know you are the best man in all the world, and if little Jack grows up half as good as you are I shall feel I have done my duty as a mother.

Don't worry about me. I'm having a good time here. I think now I was partly to blame for your mother's antipathy toward me.

She really is very sweet, and although he do not agree on one subject, we are getting along pretty well together. Of course I have to keep my mouth shut more than I'd like. I wonder if all old people are as cock sure of themselves as your mother, Jack.

Do you see that little spot here on the letter? It was made by your son's tiny lips and your wife has also pressed a kiss upon it. We are sending them both with love to you, LESLIE.

DROP KICK SAVES GAME

HOW FOOTBALL TACTICS BY DERRILL PRATT MADE POSSIBLE BRILLIANT DOUBLE PLAY.

BY BILLY EVANS

In his days as a college star at the University of Alabama, Derrill Pratt, who has played with various American League clubs, won as much fame on the gridiron as diamond. During the off-season he has acted as football coach, of recent date assisting at the University of Michigan.

During his "rah-rah" days, Pratt was noted for his kicking ability. Down south they still talk of his long distance punts and remarkable field goals.

Football tactics, as a rule, do not mix with baseball, yet one of the most remarkable double plays I have ever seen pulled was the result of a neat drop kick on the part of Pratt.

Detroit was playing the Yankees at the Polo Grounds. With the bases full and one down, Bobby Veach hit a grounder through the pitcher's box, which looked good for at least a single. The Tigers were two runs behind at the time and it looked as if the score would surely be tied.

Pratt reached over after the ball. He never reached it with his hands, but in taking his last step the ball came into contact with his right foot. It arched directly into the hands of Roger Peckinpaugh, then playing short for the Yankees, who easily completed a double play, retiring the side.

Pratt, after kicking the ball stumbled, and did a head first slide in the general direction of the outfield. He hadn't the slightest idea of what had become of the ball. Not until he got to his feet and saw the Yankees going off the field, was he aware that the side had been retired.

It stands out as the only drop-kick double play in the history of baseball.

EXPERIENCE AS NURSE CAUSES MRS. FLEMING TO ENDORSE TANLAC

California Woman Regained Strength, Following Operation, by Tanlac Treatment — Recommends It to Patients.

"I would never have believed any medicine on earth could help me like Tanlac did," is the precise statement of Mrs. Cella Fleming, 1915 Addison St., Berkeley, Calif., a practical nurse of sixteen years' experience.

"In 1904 a serious operation weakened my system so I never saw a real well day until I took Tanlac three years ago. I never seemed to be hungry, my stomach was so disordered I could scarcely retain a thing I ate, and I lost weight till I was almost a shadow. I was very anemic, and shattered nerves and sleepless nights contributed even more to my already miserable state.

Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion wonderfully, and every single ailment went away. Then, with returning strength came a 32-pound increase in weight, and from that day three years ago my health has been splendid. I recommend Tanlac to many of my patients, for it is indeed a remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

FOR THE FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Colonel Holmes, soldier and adventurer, returned to England, his native land, when war with Holland was declared. It is dangerous for him to be in the country, for the English army because the name of Colonel Holmes, father of the school, appears in the warrant for the execution of the late king.

The plague is spreading rapidly in London. A friend of the colonel, named Tucker, is arrested for plotting against the government. Before Holmes has been seen in Tucker's company a warrant is out for his arrest.

His Grace of Buckingham plots with a view to abduct the beautiful actress Sylvia Parquharson. Buckingham sends his man Bates to rent a furnished house in Knight Ryder Street to which place the Duke means to arrange to have Sylvia carried by force.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"If things continue as at present, your grace should have no cause for complaint on that score. Does the City will be the most depopulated spot in England. Already more than half the houses in Knight Ryder Street are empty. I trust your grace is not thinking of residing there."

"Not . . . not exactly." His grace was frowning, thoughtfully. "There's no infection in the street, I hope?"

"Not yet. But there's an abundant fear of it, as everywhere else in the City. This merchant in Fenchurch Street didn't trouble to conceal the opinion that I was crazy to be seeking a house in London at such a time."

"Pooh, pooh!" His grace dismissed the matter of fear contemptuously. "These dits frighten themselves into the plague. It's opportune enough. It will serve to keep men's minds off the concerns of their neighbors. I want no spying on me in Knight Ryder Street. Tomorrow, Bates, you'll seek this merchant and engage the house—and you're to acquire the tenancy of it in your own name. You understand? My name is not to be mentioned. To avoid questions you'll pay him six months' rent at once."

Bates bowed. "Perfectly, your grace."

His grace leaned back in his great chair, and considered his servant through half-closed, stily smiling eyes.

"You'll have guessed, of course, the purpose for which I am acquiring this house."

"I should never presume to guess any purpose of your grace's."

"By which you mean that my purpose baffles you. That is an admission of dullness. You recall the little comedy we played a month ago for the benefit of Miss Parquharson?"

"I have occasion to. My bones are still sore from the cudgeling I got. It was a very realistic piece of acting, on the part of your grace's cursed French groom."

"Well, introduce a more serious note into the comedy. We'll carry the lady off. That is the purpose for which I require this house."

"It . . . it's a hanging matter."

"Oh, damn your silliness. A hanging matter! When I'm behind you?"

"That's what makes it so. They'll never venture to hang your grace. But they'll need a scapegoat. If there's trouble, and they'll hang your instruments to pacify the rabble's clamor for justice."

"Are you quite mad?"

"I'm not only sane, your grace! I'm shrewd. And if I may presume to advise your grace . . ."

"That would, indeed, be a presumption, you impudent rogue!" The Duke's voice rose sharply, a heavy frown rumbled his brow. "You forget yourself, I think."

"I beg your grace's pardon." But he went on, none the less. "Your" grace, perhaps, is not aware of the extent of the panic in the City over this pestilence. The cry everywhere is that it is a visitation provoked by the sin of the Court. That's what the canting Nonconformist preachers have put about. And if this thing that your grace contemplates . . ."

"Listen, Bates. If we are ill served on the one hand by the pestilence, we are very well served on the other. To carry Miss Parquharson off while she is playing at the theater would be to have a hue-and-cry set up at once that might lead to discovery and unpleasant consequences. But the Lord Mayor has ordered the closing of all theaters on Saturday, and it is on Saturday after the theater, therefore, that this thing must be done, when Miss Parquharson will no longer be missed and her disappearance give rise to no excitement—particularly at a time when this very fear of the plague is giving people enough to think about."

"And afterwards, your grace?"

"When the lady makes complaint."

Buckingham smiled in his knowledge.

Mr. Etheredge, coming later that day to visit him, found his grace still in a bedgown, pacing the handsome library, restless as a caged beast.

Mr. Etheredge, who well knew the attraction that held the Duke fast in Town, and who had, himself, just completed his preparations for departure, came to make the last of several recent attempts to recall his friend to his senses, and persuade him of leave London for healthier surroundings.

Buckingham laughed at him without mirth.

"You alarm yourself without occasion, George. This pestilence is born of uncleanness and confines itself to the unclean. Look into the cases that are reported. The outbreaks are all in mean houses in mean streets. The plague practices a nice discrimination, and does not venture to intrude upon persons of quality."

"Nevertheless, I take my precautions," said Mr. Etheredge, producing a handkerchief from which a strong perfume of camphor and vinegar diffused itself through the room.

"And I am one of those who believe that flight is the best physic. Besides, what is there to do here? The Court is gone; the Town is hot and reeking as an anteroom of hell. In Heaven's name let us seek a breath of clean, cool, country air."

"Pish! You're buffoon. Like Dryden you've a pastoral mind. Well, well, be off to your sheep. We shall not miss you here."

Mr. Etheredge sat down and studied his friend, pursing his lips.

"And all this for a prude who has no notion of being kind! Let me perish, Bucks, but I don't know you!"

Etheredge got up and went to set a hand upon his arm.

"If you stay, and at such a time, you must have some definite purpose in your mind. What is it?"

"What was in my mind before you came to trouble it, George. To end the matter where I should have begun it." And he adapted three lines of Suckling's:

"If of herself she will not love, Myself shall make her, The devil take her!"

Etheredge shrugged in despair and despair.

"You're not only mad, Bucks," said he. "You're coarse. I warned you once of the dangers of this thing. I've no mind to repeat myself. But you'll give me leave to marvel that you can take satisfaction in . . ."

"Marvel all you please," the other interrupted him with a touch of anger. "Perhaps, indeed, I am a matter for marvel. I am a man racked, consumed, burnt up by my feelings for this woman who has scorned and spurned and made a mockery of me. If I could believe in her virtue, I would go my ways, bending to her stubborn will. But virtue in an actress! It is as likely as snow in hell. She indulges a cruel and perverse zeal to torture a man whom she sees perishing of love for her."

He paused a moment, to pursue with even greater fierceness, his face livid with the working of the emotion that possessed him—that curious and fearful merging of love and hatred that is so often born of baffled passion. "I could tear the jade limb from limb with these two hands, and take joy in it. I could so. Or with the same joy I could give my body to the rack for her sweet sake! To such an abject state have her wiles reduced me."

protestations." His grace was coldly supercilious. "Unfortunately, this is the only service I desire of you at the moment."

Bates was reduced to despair. "I can't, your grace! I can't!" he cried. "It is a hanging matter, as your grace well knows."

"Then there is no more to be said." Inwardly Buckingham was very angry. Outwardly he remained icily cold. "You have leave to go, Bates, and I shall not further require your services. If you will apply to Mr. Grove he will pay you what moneys may be due to you."

A wave of the white jeweled hand dismissed the crestfallen little scoundrel. The Duke's trump card had failed to win him the game, and he knew not where to find another agent for the enterprise which now obsessed him.

Mr. Etheredge, coming later that day to visit him, found his grace still in a bedgown, pacing the handsome library, restless as a caged beast.

Radio Proves Boon to Unfortunate Deaf

Radio Proves Boon to Unfortunate Deaf

Nearly everyone knows that the invention of the telephone was more or less of an accident—that it was the result of efforts by Alexander Graham Bell to make an instrument by which his wife, who was deaf, could hear. It was during these experiments that he made the instrument which revolutionized communication throughout the world.

It is not so generally realized that deaf persons, in many instances, can hear better over the radio, and that this new art of communication is proving a real boon to the deaf.

This is due largely to recent remarkable advances in the art of broadcasting music and the voice, and to the fact that in receiving sets where there is amplification without distortion, the quality and volume of sound makes it possible for many deaf persons, who do not readily hear ordinary conversation, to hear and understand over the radio.

Recently a man called at the office of a well known manufacturer of amplifying transformers to tell him what radio had done for his neighbor and lifelong pal. The neighbor had been so deaf for many years that it was impossible to make him understand unless one actually shouted into his ear. One evening while visiting his friend the deaf man put on the receiver of a set and found, to his amazement, that he could understand every word. Right then and there he asked his friend to make him a set, and the following Sunday the set was installed. That evening the man went over to his neighbor's house to see if the set was working and found him listening intently. The deaf man rose from the seat, took his friend by the hands, and with tears streaming from his eyes said, "Old pal, you don't know what you have done for me. For the first time in 20 years I have been able to hear a sermon. I have attended church three times today by radio."

There is increasing realization of the possibilities of radio, not only for persons whose hearing is too defective to enable them to hear sermons and public addresses, but also for persons who, from ill health, or other cause, are not able to go into the crowds of public places to hear sermons, lectures, addresses, concerts, etc. With a single home-made set, all of these treasures of entertainment and education are brought to their own library. No better example of this has been afforded the country than the experience of former President Woodrow Wilson, who, while an invalid during the last years of his life, spent hours of every day listening to the radio and thereby keeping in close touch with the world in which he had formerly been so active.
